

Mark Brinegar

Citizens, business and science partnering to make a difference for pollinators

Landscape Architects Promoting Pollinator Habitat

As landscape architects, one of the most effective ways we can improve the ecological benefit of any landscape is knowing how to identify, enhance, and create habitat for pollinators.

Learn how landscape architects are promoting pollinator habitat.

Layout of the pollinator garden at Sasaki
image credit: Matthew Arielly, Sasaki

Credit: Matthew Arielly, Sasaki

NHMLA POLLINATOR GARDEN Our garden is a magnet for hummingbirds, bees, and butterflies. Come to the northeast corner of the Nature Gardens, spot pollinators and the native plants they need for fuel.

Credit: National History Museum Los Angeles County

MPGC Museum Garden Studied for Its Impact on Pollinators

Urban Nature Gardens at the Natural History Museum of Los Angeles County attract “wildlife spectacle” of insect pollinators.

See how Nature Gardens support greater abundance and diversity.

National Planting Day Kicks Off Fall Planting for Pollinators!

Held annually the first Saturday after Labor Day, National Planting Day kicks off the fall planting season for Keep America Beautiful’s network of more than 600 state and community-based affiliates and other local partners with events taking place through October.

Find out more about National Planting Day.

Community Action Plan for Pollinators

Along with the benefits of supporting pollinator survival, Pollinator Action Plan recommendations offer additional advantage to the Town of Great Barrington, its Department of Public Works, and local farmers and gardeners.

Read more.

The Berkshire Eagle

Great Barrington hopes pollinator plan generates buzz

Posted Sunday, September 2, 2018 4:51 pm
By Heather Bellow, The Berkshire Eagle
GREAT BARRINGTON — The birds and the bees are in trouble, and the town — and a lot of state lawmakers — are trying to help.

Make Your Garden Habitat #BeeCounted!

Inspiring gardens are coming in each day! Make sure you and your network are on the Million Pollinator Garden Challenge Map! Use our logo on your website, have posters printed, mention us on social media using #polliNATION, or share this press release.

Credit: Million Pollinator Garden Challenge

BEE COUNTED

#PolliNation

Contact Us | Unsubscribe

© 2018 National Pollinator Garden Network, All rights reserved.

The National Pollinator Garden Network is a partnership between conservation organizations, gardening groups, volunteer civic associations and participating federal agencies to inspire people and organizations to create more pollinator habitats.